welcome to stavanger

It is an honour and pleasure to welcome you to the first Scandinavian Update on trauma, resuscitation and emergency medicine in Stavanger. On behalf of the Scientific- and Organizing Committees we will welcome you to join us and meet your colleagues as well as the experts in your field of interest.

The Formula of Survival¹ highlights the importance of medical science, educational efficiency and local organization, individual and mutual, for survival of our patients. Scandinavian Update on trauma, resuscitation and emergency medicine will focus on the Formula of Survival and aim to become the meeting point for all Scandinavian doctors, nurses and paramedics involved in life saving activities inside and outside the hospital.

In the good spirit of TraumaCare 2002 Scandinavia, the SCANTEM (Scandinavian Networking Group on Trauma and Emergency Management) was established and held its first meeting in Gothenburg in 2004. Scandinavian Update 2005 will be the second SCANTEM-meeting.

We have made the program highly interactive. Besides keynote lectures, there will be pro-con debates, round-table discussions, hands-on workshops, learning centres, and stand-up science. There will be special symposiums on important topics like prehospital airway management, critical bleeding and therapeutic hypothermia. Along with you, there is a good mixture of international and Scandinavian guests in the multi-speciality faculty.

The conference venue is the Clarion Hotel Stavanger, close to the inner harbour in the charming city centre of Stavanger, not far from the famous Lysefjorden and Preikestolen/The Pulpit Rock.

Meet, have fun, share ideas, and look into the future of trauma, resuscitation and emergency medicine.

Welcome to Scandinavian Update 2005!

Chairman Scientific Committee

Hans Morten Lossius

Arkivet

September 9 2005

19.00

The local café, Arkivet, is the meeting point for a new concept for free paper presentations. Presenters will stand up, only supported by a flip-over, and convince you that their work will affect the future of trauma, resuscitation or emergency medicine. Grab this opportunity to get updated!

Come join us in an intimate atmosphere with "Happy Hour" prices. Limited capacity.

Free papers

The authors are asked to send abstracts from lectures as well as from posters and workshop presentations. Abstracts to be submitted for presentation must be produced in font Times New Roman, point size 11. Maximum number of words is 300, including title, subtitle, authors and references.

The abstracts may be scientific or narrative in nature but must be relevant to either trauma, resuscitation or emergency medicine.

The abstracts must be organized using an introduction, methods, results and conclusion. Accepted abstracts will be published in Akuttjournalen - The Scandinavian Journal of Trauma, Resuscitation and Emergency Medicine. The abstracts should be sent to the Scientific committee of the Scandinavian Update on trauma, resuscitation and emergency medicine's email address on www.scandinavian-update.org.

post conference symposium

September 11-12 2005
 Utstein kloster

Emergency Medical Dispatch, the first link in the Chain of Survival

Recommended guidelines for reporting of data from the out-of-hospital phase of medical dispatch for cardiac arrest and telephone-guided CPR

High quality medical dispatch is crucial for survival from cardiac arrest and performance at discharge from hospital. It is time for making medical dispatch as evidence based as possible. One step is uniform reporting Utstein style, tailored for medical dispatch and cardiac arrest.

The aim of this Utstein meeting is to bring together Scandinavian and other European experts in this field to collectively draw up recommendations for reviewing, reporting, and conducting research on medical dispatch.

The results will be published in international journals.

The symposium is supported by grants from the Laerdal Foundation for Acute Medicine.
